History of art

Welcome to The Fitzwilliam Museum, explore your art & design exam themes in the museum galleries. We have a diverse and fascinating collection that we match to your exam themes each year. So here's a taster of the collection to get you creative and inspired.

We welcome you to explore the Fitzwilliam Museum collection with your students as part of their Art and Design exam research. Students are invited to use drawing in the galleries as part of their exam preparation and where permitted to record artworks and artefacts using photography (without flash). Please do help yourselves to the stools available and students may enjoy listening to music through headphones while they work. WiFi can be limited due to the nature of the museum building but most of the collection can be explored on-line and it is helpful for students to make a note of items accessions numbers, these are at the bottom of most labels for example: PD.966-1963

We have taken your exam board themes and matched them with a selection of art and objects in the Fitzwilliam Museum collection.

This is intended as a spring board for students to generate research ideas rather than an exhaustive list! Additional information may also be found using hyperlinks to the Fitzwilliam Collections online, to use this please click on the artists name to see further information and images.

We are pleased to offer help through February with artist led studio sessions, art history gallery tours and one-to-one discussions and art research help.
